THE STRIKERS' TRIAL.

Objections of Defendants' Counsel Overruled.

A REBUKE FROM JUDGE WOODS.

A Quiet Lecture in Response to a Sudden Outburst by Attorney Erwin, Counsel for the Accused American Railway Union Officials.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 8.—The examination of railway strikers was begun yesterday in the trial of the American Railway union officials. Switchmen Krieger, of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul, testified that Con McAnuff, head of the Milwaukee American Railway union, had come to him with a request from Debs that all the Milwaukee railway men strike. Not many of them went out, however.

A fireman on the St. Paul road testified that he had left his place because of intimidation, and an engineer on the same line said he was told that if he did not leave his engine he would never get out of Chicago alive.

William A. Henry, of Kankakee, a switchman in the employ of the Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa railroad, was the next witness, and one of the most important offered by the government, because he had personally received a telegram ordering him to call out the men.

At that time witness was a member of the American Railway union. Witness showed the telegram when he received it to several switchmen, but took no further action.

Mr. Irwin objected to the testimony because it concerned a road not included in the injunction, but the court decided to admit the evidence.

At the afternoon session several witnesses took the stand and testified at various points during the continuance of the strike. Their evidence was strenuously objected to by the defense, on the ground that it was totally foreign to the issue because it did not show that any of the actual defendants in the case—Debs, Howard, Kehler, Rogers, or any of the other directors of the A. R. U.—were in any way connected with such disturbances. Mr. Walker, assistant United States attorney, always replied that he would show how that connection came later, and the evidence was promptly admitted by the court upon that assurance.

The defense also objected to all testimony that dealt with the acts of the strikers before July 4, the day on which the injunctions of Judges Wood and Grosscup, the basis of the contempt suits, were posted. In overruling this objection the court said that such evidence was admitted to show that the situation on the days immediately succeeding the posting of the injunctions was no better than before, or in other words, that no attention was paid to the orders of the court.

Just before the afternoon session adjourned Mr. Irwin arose and burst into heated denunciation of the methods pursued by the government's attorneys. He said: "There is no more right to my telling you how you have strained construction of words than to you to vex the people by this procedure."

"Terrible Tragedy in Arkansas." NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A sensational tragedy occurred here yesterday in a small white-pine forest in Arkansas, state park, yesterday afternoon. Thompson, a farmer, has a fine model crop, and the fruits of his labor are frequenting the market in spite of the inundations. Thursday the crew saw Felix George Bridges, a neighbor's son, and a man named Jacob Muir was found dead in the patches. When young George's father saw that Thompson had possessed the implements that caused the death of his son he shot him dead. Bridges escaped.

California Fruit in England. LONDON, Sept. 8.—The consignment of California fruit which arrived here from Southampton on Wednesday via the American Line steamship New York reached Covent Garden market in far better condition than the first or second shipments. The fruit was sold respecting its quality. The peaches did poorly and the plums went fairly well, although the market was fairly full. Any quantity of California Bartletts will sell well, as the French Bartletts are exhausted, and the English are wormy.

Liquor Dealers' Association Officers. ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8.—The Liquor Dealers' National Association adjourned sine die to meet next year at Washington. The following officers were chosen: President, William Beatty, of Indiana; secretary, Robert J. Hulse, of Illinois; treasurer, John W. Howard, of St. Louis; executive committee, August K. Schieffelin, of New Jersey; John F. Woods, of Ohio; and E. L. Jordan, of Washington.

Said God Was His Counsel. WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 8.—Hermon P. Fairhurst, of Arizona, was placed on trial in the United States district court last evening to answer to the charge of sending obscene postal cards through the mail. Fairhurst denied counsel, saying it was his counsel. He did not deny having sent postal cards, but a number of witnesses said it was impossible. The jury found him guilty and recommended that the maximum sentence be imposed. It took some men to take him from the courtroom.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day. "Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in one to three days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy-five cents. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown.

To save this healthy disease is as good as to have it good, but to cure it good and handily both must have it used. There is grease enough in the world, and yet harness and shoes get shabby and, and wear out in half their time for want of it.

GOING BACK TO BLUEFIELDS.

American Refugees Will be Taken There by the Columbia.

COLON, Sept. 8.—The United States warship Columbia has been ordered to convey the American refugees at Port Limon back to Bluefields, Mosquito territory.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Admiral Ramsay, acting secretary of the navy, when shown a dispatch from Colon saying that the steamer Columbia had been ordered to convey the American refugees from Port Limon back to Bluefields, said that no order had been issued from Washington to that effect and that it must have come from our representatives in or near Nicaragua. A few days ago when the Columbia arrived at Port Limon to take coal Captain Summer telegraphed Admiral Ramsay, and asked if there were any further instructions and the admiral answered that there were none. Captain Summer informed the admiral what had been done, but said nothing as to any contemplated action. Admiral Ramsay says that the general instructions of Captain Summer are sufficient to cover all contingencies and that if the commander of the Columbia decided it was best to return the American refugees at Port Limon to Bluefields he had full authority to do so.

The state department is investigating the alleged seizure by the Nicaraguan government of a vessel owned by Americans, and which it is said was used to transport the prisoners captured at Bluefields to Colon. The Nicaraguan government, it is understood, claims that the vessel was under control of a company of which he is superintendent. He said:

"The charges made in Mr. Drayton's petition are false, absolutely false. That is all I have to say in the matter."

Big Suit Against the Rockefellers.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 8.—William and John McKinley, of this city, and James Charnley, of Chicago, have sued the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines for $200,000. They charge that fraud and misrepresentation were used to induce them to sell the McKinley mine to the company in order to induce plaintiffs to go into the consolidation. The papers in the suit say the Rockefellers promised that all mines should go in on one basis, according to the amount of ore in sight, and at the very time of negotiations the Rockefellers combination was scheming to take a lot of other mines, including some in Cuba, on a different basis. As a result, the plaintiffs parted with $80,000 of property for stock in the consolidation, not worth over $120,000.

Held at Quarantine.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 8.—Four cases of malignant fever, one of which resulted fatally, developed on board the British steamship Samuel Tyzack, Captain Wepner, from Havana, on Friday, Aug. 31. The Tyzack is now lying off quarantine with her entire crew aboard, save four freshmen. George Hartman, whose death occurred on Wednesday, and Chief Engineer Edgar W. Poole, John Wilson and Cornelius Watson, who are at the Quarantine hospital. The Tyzack left Havana Aug. 21 and reached here with a clean bill of health. Hartman was taken sick on Sunday and died on Tuesday. Wilson was taken sick on Monday and Watson on Wednesday.

Judicial Authorities Differ.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 8.—In the Oregon National Guard match, open to teams of sixteen from the National Guard of New Jersey was finished yesterday. It was won by the team from the Second regiment. Following are the scores: Second regiment team, 1,647; Seventh, 1,624; Sixth, 1,619; Fourth, 1,584. The preliminary match for the championship of America will be concluded this afternoon. The Georgia team is now ahead, with the Washington team second.

The Prize Fight on Paper.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Champion James J. Corbett said in an interview regarding Peter Jackson: "I am willing to sign articles to fight Jackson to a finish for any amount. He can name any place he pleases from Alaska to the South pole, but I want no twenty round fight." His complaint about having crossed the continent to meet him is all boshone. The question now is, whether the referee could make the reduction in the wages of each fighter without the consent of the court.

Work Released from Prison.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—George F. Work, the singer and banjoist who was sentenced in February, 1893, to serve four years in the Eastern penitentiary for insidiously robbing and extorting securities of the Newark Bank of America, was released, having received under the commutation law for good behavior, the benefit of six months' time. In accordance with previously made plans, Work left the city at once, saying that he will join his family in a quiet place in the country for a time, in order to regain his strength.

MRS. DRAYTON WILL FIGHT.

Her Friends Claim That She Will Disprove Her Husband's Assertions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Today's World

says in connection with the Drayton divorce case: There are several points to Mrs. Drayton's story, and every point has the interest of being new and now made public for the first time. To begin Mrs.

Drayton not only does not regret the bringing of the divorce suit by her husband, but received the news of it gladly,

and arranged that the papers might be serviced on her expeditiously.

Mrs. Drayton not only will contest the divorce suit, but will fight it to the bitter end. Mrs. Drayton will answer Mr. Drayton's petition for a divorce with a cross petition, alleging unfaithfulness on his part and gross violation of his marriage vows. She will enter a general and specific denial of all his charges against her,

and will bring what her friends regard as proof positive that she has been maligned.

She precipitated the divorce proceedings by deliberately bringing a suit for the custody of her children. All these facts are true beyond peradventure, her friends say, and when they are confirmed by the filling of her cross petition and by the testimony at the trial, the confirmation will be so sensational that the statement of the bare facts will seem very tame.

THE PRINCE'S DENIAL.

A Starting and Romantic Story Which Is Important If True.

It is that the new associations have been authorized by the Prince of Wales to deny that the Duke of York was married previous to his union with Princess May of Teck. The Prince of Wales was quite right to make the denial; the editor of the newspaper was quite right to call it in. Permit me to quote the prince's statement, which was issued by his private secretary, Colonel Sir Francis Knollys. Then I wish to add a rider: London, Aug. 1. A letter signed by Sir Francis Knollys, K.C.B., states that the government says a Prince of Wales is not a shadow of a man, but he is a man, and the Duke of York was married previous to his union with Princess May of Teck. The editor of the paper of a rival newspaper was obviously forced to do it, and amazement to the people.

There is more than a "shadow of a man" for the duke's marriage—the record is in the English church in Malta. The marriage took place four years ago, when Prince George was with the Mediterranean squadron. At that time his elder brother was living and was heir to the throne. There would never have been a question of the legality of the marriage had not "Collars and Cuffs" died. His death made the Duke of York—Prince George, as he was then—heir to the duchies of his grandmother. His marriage to a commoner was out of the question. Now, mark the odd course of events. The Duke of Clarence—"Collars and Cuffs"—had been betrothed for nine months to the Princess May of Teck. When he died suddenly, his brother Prince George, was ordered to keep the engagement. In spite of all his resistance he was married to his brother's fiancee. His own wife—his morganatic wife, if you please—forced her way into the church on the wedding day and created a scandal which was only half suppressed. She was his wife, the mother of his two children. Had he not been forced by circumstances into the direct succession to the throne there would have been no question of the legality of that marriage ceremony performed by the English chaplain at Malta.

But the woman was repudiated.

She was a Miss Tryon and the niece of one of England's famous sailors—a man under whom the "sailor prince," this charming Duke of York, had learned his seamanship. When Admiral Tryon learned of the shame cast upon his name, he was half mad. The drink he took did not kill him. The one thing he could do was to kill himself, and he committed suicide by sinking the first man-of-war in the English navy. He drowned hundreds of men, sank a million pound ironclad and went down laughing drunk on the bridge.

The Prince of Wales denies?

Not even the Prince of Wales can buy that scandal.

The Duke of York's morganatic wife has been pensioned. She is living at Richmond with her two children. In the latter part of June she obeyed orders and married poor gentleman whom the Prince of Wales provided. Now that everything has been "covered"—in these days when the Duke of York is reigning over a son and heir to the throne—the cry is raised that the "sailor prince" has been slandered.

What about that ruined woman?

What about Admiral Tryon—Vance Thompson in New York Commercial Advertiser.

CAUGHT A HUGE SHARK.

Ghosts at Atlantic Highlands Land One
Eight and a Half Feet Long.

Guests at hotels of Atlantic Highlands went blushing early Tuesday morning and returned with a shark 8½ feet long.

The sleek yacht Brunhilde, Captain W. D. Overton in command, was engaged for the day. When about three miles at sea, the fish began to bite. One of the party felt something tugging on the end of his line and gave a sudden pull. As a result he was nearly pulled overboard. He called for help. The captain, crew and his companions went to his aid and helped him in the line.

When they had brought the monster to the surface, he was found to be almost exhausted. A rope was fastened around him, and the fishermen started for home in triumph, pulling the shark astern. A landing was made at Curtis' bathing pavilion, and the story of the unusual capture spread like wildfire. The shark, which was dead at this time, was dragged ashore.

The fish tipped the scales at 290 pounds and measured 8½ feet in length. Its mouth is nearly a foot in width, and he has three rows of sharp triangular-shaped teeth. The fish is on exhibition at Curtis' bath house, the local taxidermist will stuff and mount the monster.—C. G. Philadelphia Press.

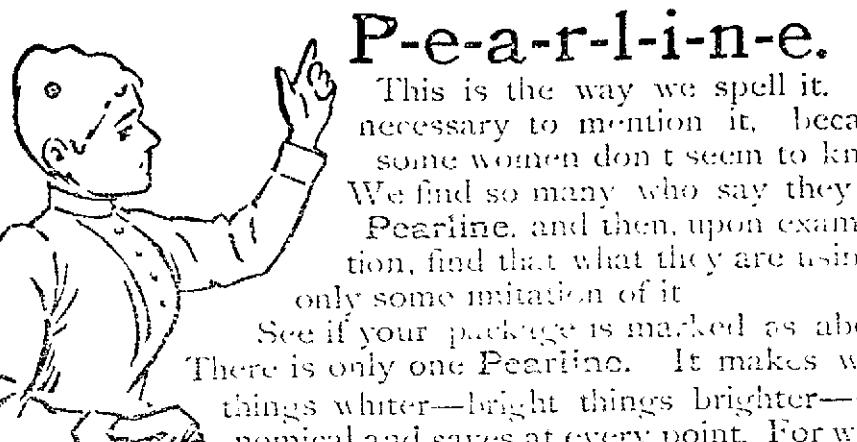

A Continuous Rail.

The Cleveland Electric Railway company is now laying a continuous rail without the breaks that are usually between lengths. The ends of the rails are carefully welded together with entire disregard of expansion and contraction. A feature of the welding, as explained by the superintendent, is that it can be done only in streets that are paved. The stone, brick or asphalt holds the rail in position and covers it so that it is not subject to heat and cold. Experiments show that under these conditions the welding can be done without injury to the track and with great increase of comfort to passengers.—Columbus Dispatch.

Shutting Out Bunker Hill.

So the Bunker Hill monument is in danger of isolation. The old Charles river bridge has for a long time been in a shaky condition, and two or three weeks ago it was officially declared to be unsafe to load toll travel except to foot passengers. Now City Engineer Jackson says that he is in doubt how long Wurton Bridge—the only outlet of Boston to Boston—will stand the strain.—Springfield Republican.

THE ARGUS: SATURDAY SEPT. 8 '94

This is the way we spell it. It's necessary to mention it, because some women don't seem to know. We find so many who say they use Pearline, and then, upon examination, find that what they are using is only some imitation of it.

See if your package is marked as above. There is only one Pearline. It makes white things whiter—bright things brighter—economical and saves at every point. For washing and cleaning, nothing under any other name can equal it.

Petters and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled.

Send it Back and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

THE BROOK.

I looked in the brook and saw a face.
Heigh-ho, but a child with it!
The water is rushing and whirling in that place.
And the water at the brook as the brook ran.

And the brook it ran its own sweet way,
As a child does in its heedless play,
And as it ran I let it say:

"It is a water,

To the rolling sea

That is a brook with the flow of the morning light."

I look in the brook and see a face.

Heigh-ho, but a child with it!

The water is dead in the old time place.

And the water is like a child who is ill.

And the brook it seems to me to say,

As ever it stirs in its way,

Solemnly now and not in play:

"To the ocean with me,

That is gray with the gray of the evening sky."

Brook for the years go by,

I would to God that I were I,

Like a brook.

A SUBTERRANEAN OCEAN.

It is Believed to Underlie Nebraska, Kansas and Indian Territory.

The best scientists of the land favor the opinion that Nebraska, Kansas and part of Indian Territory are situated over an immense underground lake or sea. It is a well known fact that in several places in Kansas where sections of land have suddenly disappeared, leaving only featureless lakeslets to mark the spot where they were once situated.

Proof that there is something peculiar with the foundation of the section of the country mentioned may be found in the celebrated "trile wells" of Polk, Butler and Colfax counties in Nebraska. Polk county is best provided with these curious wells, having between a dozen and 20 which roar and bubble and flow with an unseen tide. The roaring of these remarkable curiosities—they cannot be called natural wonders, because they are the work of man, at least so far as excavation is concerned—is caused by the inhalation and exhalation of immense quantities of air. There are hours, regular and uniform, in which the air will rush out with a loud, hissing sound, and again an equal space of time in which it seems that all the air of the Platte valley will be sucked into the cavernous depths of the new earth wells.

The period of this ebb and flow does not seem to depend upon either the seasons or the state of the weather, but is thought to have some mysterious connection with the high and low tide periods of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. A meteorologist of national reputation, who sought to learn the mystery of the "Platte river tide wells," and who issued a little pamphlet with the title "Roaring Wells of Nebraska," gave it as his opinion that the roaring phenomenon was in some way connected with the prevailing direction of the wind, being strongest in time of west-southwest winds. The farmers in the three counties mentioned as being best provided with the tide wells regulated air exhalings well to have that the water supply is connected with a body large enough to have a regular ebb and flow tide. All the wells in the counties of Polk and Butler which are tide-regulated are of about the same depth, those of Colfax being deeper, but all extending to a porous stratum having the same general characteristics.—St. Louis Republic.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 250 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt,

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers, and permanently curing constipation.

It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Against Archbishop Corrigan.
NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The World today says: There is excellent reason to believe that within the past few months grave charges, accompanied by documentary evidence, have been brought against Archbishop Corrigan in Rome. The New York archbishop has been accused of insidious and perfidious opposition to the apostolic decretal. The evidence is alleged to be partly direct and partly inferential. It is said that much of it has been supplied by the archbishop's own letters.

What Will Do It?

MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces.

The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is, so far positive that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concur in this fact. Our druggists keep it

SLAVES TO THEIR HOMES

Physicians Prescribe Paine's Celery Compound for Such Women.

There are thousands of tired women today on the verge of breaking down because they are martyrs to their own false ideas of domestic duty.

They are slaves to their homes; and their exalted notions of absolute order and cleanliness keep them from morning to night upon the racks of mental and physical torture until they grow old, care worn, nervous, irritable and sickly, in their foolish struggle with dust.

Only the exceptionally strong can stand the debilitating effect of over heated rooms, lack of fresh air and exercise, over-burdened stomachs and the artificial, nervous, hurried life of so many good wives and mothers.

Just as nature prompts young children to cry and grow irritable when hungry, so poorly fed, over-worked nerves cry out for their proper food by twinges of rheumatism and neuralgia.

It is nature's language in each case.

Just as the fretting, crying child drops to refreshing sleep after being properly fed, exactly so the nervous system feels right away the equalizing restoring action of Paine's celery compound.

A fair trial of this greatest of remedies brings strength to tired, "run down" men and women, and frees them permanently from debility, heart palpitation, despondent feelings and inability to sleep because of nervous weakness.

Mrs. S. E. Welch of Lynn, Mass., whose portrait appears above, writes as follows:

"I was taken ill last January with the grip and it left me with the rheumatism in my hands and feet. My feet were swollen so bad and were so sore that I found it work to walk. My husband brought me home two bottles of Paine's celery compound. Seeing that it was doing me good, I continued its use until I had taken five bottles when I was free from rheumatism and have not had any since.

"Today I can truly say that I am as well as I ever was in my life."

That's it. Paine's celery compound makes people well.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

The People's party will be in the city of New York on Saturday, Sept. 10, to attend the Assembly District Convention to be held in the Assembly Rooms, 15th Street and Broadway, at 1 P.M. The purpose of this meeting is to nominate candidates to be voted for at the State convention, to be held on Saturday, Sept. 17, at the Hotel Astor, and to transact such other business as may be properly before the convention.

An encouraging feature of the business situation is the fact that for the first seven months of the year our exports have exceeded our imports by $5,000,000.

Mr. Platt says that he would very much like to see Mr. Fassett Governor, but desires party success above all other things. This is most unkind and indicates that in Mr. Platt's opinion Fassett and success are an impossible combination.

Hon. Thomas C. Platt, of New York, who has a big mortgage on the Republican party of Tioga county, was, yesterday, chosen to head the delegation from that county to the State convention. The delegates were not instructed.

The Syracuse Herald, Ind. rep., says "the constitutional convention is apparently neglecting no opportunity to demonstrate its unfitness to appal adequately with any question bigger than a loaf or a fish."

Ex Secretary of State Frederick Cook says that the newspaper talk about his being a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Gov. "is nonsense." He says further that he favors the renomination of Gov. Flower, if the Governor will consent to be a candidate.

Gov. Peck, of Wisconsin, and Gov. Nelson, of Minnesota, announced, yesterday, that outside help was not needed or the forest fire sufferers and that each State would care for such of its citizens as needed help. This action is in refreshing contrast to the course ordinarily pursued when great calamities overtake any locality. Too often states and cities, instead of providing for the needs of their sufferers, do nothing in their behalf but instead appeal to the charity of the whole country.

The Louisiana sugar growers, who threaten to leave the Democratic party because the sugar bounty has been repealed, are more frank than most of the beneficiaries of McKinleyism. They say in effect that their votes are in the market and will be given to the party that bids most of the people's money. Under the McKinley law they were paid $15,000,000 yearly from the treasury as a direct bounty. That is their price. The forty per cent. duty imposed by the new tariff on foreign raw sugars does not satisfy these sugar growers, who, having tasted blood, are ravenous for more.

A very interesting turn has been given to the Republican campaign by the announcement made, yesterday, by Chairman Brookfield, of the Republican State Committee, that Chauncey M. Depew had cabled from Europe that he will accept the nomination for Governor, if tendered by the State convention. Mr. Depew will sail for New York, to-day, and will be in New York three days in advance of the meeting of the convention, on Sept. 18. A vigorous campaign is to be at once inaugurated in his behalf in New York and Brooklyn, and it is confidently believed that his personal popularity and con-veniences ability will make it easy to unite the anti-Platt sentiment in the Republican party on him and insure the defeat of Platt and his man, Morton.

WHY MR. HARRISON IS SILENT.
Private New York Herald

Mr. President Harrison modestly declines to "say much of the last Administration—delicacy forbids." No such sentiment prevents the people from thinking. They remember that the last Administration found a full Treasury and left an empty one, that it found nearly a hundred millions of gold in excess of the reserve and left nothing, that it found a surplus revenue of $100,000,000 and left a deficiency, that it found taxes on a war basis and left them still higher, that it found a relatively harmless silver coinage law and left a billion-purchase act that precipitated a monetary panic. Mr. Harrison's "delicacy" stood him in good stead.

The people quickly recognize merit and this is the reason the sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla are continually increasing. Hood's is "on top."

REPUBLICAN DELEGATES CHOSEN.

The Republican Convention for the Assembly District Chooses Delegates to the State Convention.

The Republican convention to choose delegates to represent this Assembly district in the State Convention, met in the Assembly Rooms, this afternoon, and was called to order by Coroner Harding, of Port Jervis.

Mr. Harding was loaded with a speech and announced that the convention had met to select "six delegates to the State Convention at Saratoga to nominate a Governor to be elected by 100,000 majority and Lieutenant-Governor to be elected by a greater majority."

When Mr. Harding paused for a moment, Mr. Goodale broke in and nominated Henry Seacord, of Hamptonburgh for Chairman.

Mr. Harding named Mr. Goodale and Mr. "Oldrod" to escort Mr. Seacord to the chair. Mr. Harding grasped Mr. Seacord by the hand as he ascended the platform, and in a speechmaking tone congratulated him on the honor conferred on him. Mr. Goodale again interrupted Mr. Harding's flow of words and introduced Mr. Seacord to the convention.

Mr. Seacord was loaded with a speech. He is grateful for small favors, (all he ever gets from the G. O. P.) and after expressing his gratitude for the honor of being made chairman of the "deestrict" convention branched off into a rambling harangue on the state of the country, in the course of which he said that the Republican party was in fine shape, but according to his story the country is in a bad way, for he averred that "its spindles is rust n't, its plumb is stopped in the cylinder heads."

C. J. Boyd, of Greenville, and C. J. Luckey, of Port Jervis, were elected Secretaries; and James A. Ogden, of Warwick, and H. T. Penny, of Goshen, were elected tellers.

Nominations for delegates were in order, and the following nominations were made:

W. K. Stansbury, C. Z. Taylor, Charles L. Mead, J. H. Goodale, of Middletown.

H. B. Fullerton, E. M. Gordon, Port Jervis.

C. E. Millspaugh, Goshen.

V. A. Wilder, Warwick.

Emmet Helm, Hamptonburgh.

R. M. Crosby, Crawford.

An informal ballot was ordered.

Clinton W. Wisner and Wilton Bennett tried to get in a motion to allow towns having but one candidate to elect him by acclamation. Motions and amendments of all kinds were made, and then resulted a most hopeless parliamentary tangle so that no one could make head or tail of. Finally the Chair said the "convention had taken a most peculiar turn," and that there was no motion before the house.

A formal ballot was ordered, but when Deer Park was called a wrangle ensued as to the right of the chairman to cast the vote of the town for Mr. Fullerton, some of the delegates who wanted to vote for Mr. Gordon being unwilling to be bound by the unit rule.

Mr. Fullerton tried to bulldoze the chairman, but he ruled that no man need be muzzled by a caucus unless he was willing to be.

The result of the ballot was

Victor A. Wilder 59

R. M. Crosby 31

C. E. Millspaugh 31

W. K. Stansbury 17

C. L. Mead 55

H. B. Fullerton 57

Emmett Helm 23

E. M. Gordon 2

C. Z. Taylor 11

J. H. Goodale 6

W. P. Richardson 3

The six persons receiving the highest number of votes were declared elected, and were authorized to appoint their own alternates.

IT WAS A DREAM.

A Middletown man had a dream, Thursday night, in which he thought a man was pounding him. He jumped out of bed and struck at the supposed man and hit the bed post so hard that there was little skin left on his knuckles. It is needless to say that there was a sudden transition from dreamland to the stern reality of wakefulness.

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY

A Construction Car for the Goshen Line—Progress of Work on the Asylum Line—Change of Schedule on Account of Delays at the North Street Crossing.

A construction car of the gondola pattern consigned to the Traction Company was received in this city via Erie road, to day. It was unloaded and towed to the power house, this afternoon.

This car will be used in building the line to Goshen line, work on which will be commenced as soon as the Asylum line is finished.

Work on the extension of the Asylum line has progressed very rapidly. The poles are set and the track laid beyond the intersection of West Main street, and but for the rain at noon to-day, which made it necessary to stop work, cars would have been run as far as West Main street tomorrow.

Owing to the frequent delays at the North street crossing, the attempt to run cars between the Park and Lake avenue will be abandoned, and one set of cars will be run separately, two cars being run in the morning and four in the afternoon. Extra cars will be run to the park whenever necessity requires.

A YEAR IN THE PENITENTIARY.

Judge Beattie Sets the Pace With "Dore" Godfrey, and Recorder Brander Gives Frank Talmadge the Going Sentence for Forgery.

Frank Talmadge, the young man who was arrested, yesterday afternoon, for passing a forged check upon Messrs. Houston, Webster & Co., was, this morning, sentenced to one year at hard labor in the Albany penitentiary.

The crime committed by Talmadge was a clear case of forgery, but under the code the offense can also be classed as petty larceny. Had the first charge been made, the Recorder would have been obliged to hold the prisoner to await the action of the Grand Jury. Offenses of the second class, however, come within the Recorder's jurisdiction, and after a consultation with the injured parties in the case, it was decided to hold him to answer to the charge of petty larceny.

When arraigned before the Recorder, this morning, the prisoner held a consultation with his father, Assistant District Attorney Powellson, and his counsel, Herbert Gedney, Esq., and it was decided to enter the plea of guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the Recorder, rather than run the risk of an indictment before the Grand Jury, and a much heavier sentence should he be found guilty of the greater offense in a higher court.

Mr. Gedney made an eloquent appeal in his behalf, and urged the Recorder to make the sentence as light as possible.

The maximum penalty for petty larceny is one year's imprisonment, or a fine of $500, or both. The Recorder thought the young man's record was not such as to entitle him to much mercy, and accordingly sent him up for one year.

BOY AGAINST TEACHER.

A Question of Discipline in a Mount Hope School.

Last fall Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald, of Mount Hope, sent his boy to the Mount Hope school. The order of the teacher was that the boys should hang their hats in the lobby, but young Fitzgerald refused to do so and carried his hat in his pocket during school hours, throughout the term.

This fall the boy again refused to hang his hat in the hall and continued to carry it in his pocket. The teacher remonstrated, but to no purpose. The boy's father gave the teacher to understand that he had taken counsel from a Middletown lawyer, who had advised him that the boy could do as he pleased with his own hat.

The teacher, however, had determined to enforce the discipline of the school, and on Thursday told the boy he must either obey the rules of the school or go home. The boy packed up his books and went home.

Now the trustees are in a peck of trouble. They want to support the teacher and do not wish to antagonize Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald nor run counter to the law, and just now they are engaged in canvassing the district to ascertain the state of public opinion, and the question of whether a school boy must hang his hat in the hall or be permitted to carry it in his pocket, remains unsettled.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Two Drunken Tramps—Presbyterians to Picnic at Midway Park—A Well Known Citizen Ill—Stole a Rig for a Night Drive.

From our Bureau Correspondent.

The police collared a couple of tramps, last night, who were sleeping off a "boozey" in the yard of C. M. Vail on Green street.

The Presbyterian Church people are making arrangements to have a picnic at Midway Park. They will have to be at considerable expense to get there, all because of the successful efforts to keep the road out of Goshen. Many of those who strongly opposed the road earlier in the season are now in full favor of it.

The condition of Mr. Philip Samuels is very critical and the chances of his recovery are about even. Physicians from Newburgh and Middletown were called in consultation, to-day.

Last evening, some one took a horse and carriage belonging to Bert Zimmer from in front of Gardiner's store. It happened that Mr. Zimmer saw the fellow driving off with the rig and ran after it. He got in the back of the wagon and the thief jumped out and ran, getting away without being recognized. Search was made for him but it was unsuccessful, and a little later it was discovered that another rig, the property of Pierson Sanford, had been taken from under Reeves & Kelsay's shed, presumably by the same party.

It was learned that the missing rig had been driven to Middletown and Mr. Sanford and an officer procured another rig and went in search of it. They returned without having obtained any trace of the stolen property.

This morning, the horse and carriage were found near Mr. Jackson Stewart's place on the Florida road.

The horse, which was tied by the roadside, showed the effects of a hard drive. The police have a slight clue to the party guilty of the temporary theft.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

First Meeting of the Vocal Society—Personal Mention—The Drought and the Cow—The Melancholy Day.

(From a Special Correspondent)

The Goshen Vocal Society held its first meeting after its vacation on Friday evening with Mrs. Mary Andrus, of Middletown, as accompanist. The members were delighted to find that Mrs. Andrus had recovered sufficiently to resume her position.

The chorus will now take up the study of Rossini's Stabat Mater and The Bohemian Girl.

It was decided to change the hour of rehearsal from 7:45 to 7:30.

Mrs. W. Wright, Miss Wright and Master Fred Wright, who have been spending the month of August at the house of Mrs. Frost, in this village, returned to their home in New York, yesterday.

It is hard to realize that the sight of mud would ever be a grateful one, but it was really a pleasure to see a little in the road on Thursday morning, it is so long that we have been feeling that the prediction "to dust we shall return" was being fulfilled by inches. Perhaps the cattle are as melancholy an evidence of the effects of the long continued drought as anything we see. It is pathetic to see them wandering about the dusty fields in vain search of a little fresh grass, now and then giving utterance to a plaintive "moo" that tells of failure. It has always seemed to the writer heretofore that it would be rather nice to be a cow. The animal has a certain patience and equanimity of disposition that must help it wonderfully to bear the ills of life. It even appears to be philosophical when it is stoned home at night by a boy and then it never loses its appetite, but the lot of a cow in a time of drought is evidently not an enviable one.

Perhaps one of the things that makes the early cool days of the autumn such a melancholy season is the closing up of the houses. The first time, after the warm weather, when one glances at a friend's house and sees it with shut windows and tenantless piazzas, it is almost like looking into a face that has always been friendly and finding it cold and unresponsive. When the leaves are off the trees, the fires lighted, and one gets used to the idea of cold weather, it is not so bad, but all transition periods are trying.

G. H. TRAVELS CHEAP

Rides His Own Horse and Boards It and Himself for Nothing.

A man who gave the name of Louis A. Hawes, residence Boston, professional veterinary surgeon, came into this city, Tuesday morning, on horseback and stopped at the Russell House. He put up his horse at Wood & Baldwin's livery stable.

He said he was making a tour through the country and expected to stop for a few days in this city and be did stay until last night, when he disappeared without paying his hotel or stable bill.

Dr. Hawes rode out every evening and started out as usual last evening telling the hostler at the stable to leave the light burning and he would put his horse away himself. The light was left burning and the doctor put the horse so far away that it has not been seen or heard from since.

This is a cheap method of making a tour of the country—ride your own horse and board yourself and horse for nothing.

THE GOLD WAS SAFE.
But the Old Man's Head in His Sleep and

"Joe," said the old man, "why didn't they

"Yes, but you didn't talk to me. I want to see."

"I'm sorry, but I tell we had today, and you know."

"Yes, you're right!" "Hansy," I called my boy, a little old Deaf boy. "Say, you're a good boy, but you're not a good boy, that's a deaf woman."

"And I think this is what the sheep comes around after we had rotted and skinned and impaled ours, live, of them cases that I was sending."

"What do you mean?" "What in thunderation dye you?"
Can't a man sit in his own house?"

"What did you put in the money in your pocket?" "The girl's safe, and I think it's about time now that the girl's had time to make up her mind."

"What! While the people are striving to get away from you on a horse back? Well, the girl's a fool woman for you!"

"Joe, I'm going to order that piano tomorrow. We've got it. The whole thing isn't stopped for years with that view."

"Now, look here. The community will wait at an oil fire, but rather an apple don't go bad, an I'm going to be mighty close run for money without any of your fool woman notions. Now, shut up!"

Jane listened to Joe's triumphant snoring for a time and reflected.

Suddenly he began talking loudly, but he was evidently still asleep.

"Five hundred! Five hundred! Will it not be better to have the gold all in one piece, mother? Could hide it better—but say, fellers! Suppose I want to turn the nickel into money again, where—do—I go?"

He slept peacefully on. So did the piano and scheme.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mr. Warren Was Funny.

I recall a tale about a New Englander—this mention of our country cousins made me think of him—who had heard a great deal about William Warren, the noted Boston comedian, but had never seen him.

One night the famous actor condescended to play in a town not far from the farmer's village, and the horny handed son of told happened to drive in that day with a load of vegetables.

At the hotel the actor was pointed out to the farmer, who was all eyes.

He gazed at him from various sides of the reading room and at last approached him.

"Are you Mr. Warren?"

"Yes, sir."

"Warm in the actor?"

"The same, sir."

"Good—same man been playin all these years in Boston."

"The identical one, sir."

"Well, well!"

Then he took another circuit around the theater and eyed him even more narrowly.

"Are you funny?"

The comedian smiled.

"Well, he is—that is a matter of opinion."

"Yes, well," the farmer said decisively.
"I s'pose I'm a go-darned fool, but here's a quarter for you. Now step out there and cut up!"—Life's Calendar.

hung his chin over the fence.

"Why don't you have a lawn mower?"
he asked after contemplating the scene a minute or two.

"I don't want a lawn mower," replied the landscape gardener. "What I want is more lawn," and the neighbor hurried away before the house should fall upon him and crush him still more.—Detroit carries Her Husband's Ashes-Chewing Gum and Its Benefits—Trolley Parties—Medical Practice Commercialized.

The widow of Edmund Yates, the English novelist and journalist, carries about with her wherever she goes the ashes of the late lamented Yates, whose body was cremated. They are inclosed in an airtight receptacle which is fitted into a little traveling bag made to receive it.

People generally, whether they chew gum themselves or are amused or annoyed at the constant wagging of the jaws of those who do, have no conception of the quantity of gum consumed. One dealer remarked, a day or two ago, that his sales averaged 1,000 sticks of gum every month and he didn't consider himself a large dealer either. Gum of various brands is sold by all confectioners and most of the grocery stores, and if the sales of the gentleman referred to are a fair average, at least 50,000 sticks of gum are sold in Middletown every month or 600,000 per year. Just think of the amount of exercise for the jaws of Middletown girls in getting away with that quantity of gum.

While it must be admitted that some girls can chew gum without detracting much from their charms, it is a fact that most of them do not appear to good advantage while continuously wagging their jaws. But aside from appearances or the cost of 600,000 sticks of chewing gum every year, there is really some benefit to be derived from the habit, although it is possible most people do not take that into consideration. The benefit is not as some manufacturers would have us believe in the quantity of pepsin in the gum, but rather in the act of chewing which excites a flow of saliva and thus aids digestion. Good digestion makes a good complexion and good complexions make pretty girls, hence it is just possible that pretty girls chew gum to make themselves pretty.

The "trolley party" craze has not yet reached Middletown, but may be expected in due season. "Trolley parties" are so very popular in Philadelphia, where there are many miles of electric road under one management, that the company has to make dates far in advance in order to be able to provide cars for the societies, lodges and private parties that wish to engage them. The cars are leased at $10 for the round trip, which takes from two to three hours and the organizers of the party charge fifty cents a ticket. The cars are decorated with flags and bunting, and usually a band of music is taken along. Tin horns used to be carried by the younger members of the parties, but residents along the routes of the roads protested so vigorously against the horn nuisance that the railroad managers have tabooed horns, and those who measure their enjoyment by the amount of noise they make have to depend on singing and shouting for a good time. These "trolley parties" are popular with the railroad people, for they make business and societies of various kinds have found that they are a sure means of putting money in their treasures with little risk and very little effort.

Dr. George T. Shady, in the current number of the Argus, in a carefully considered article on "The Pay of Physicians and Surgeons," declares that the medical profession is underpaid, not because there are not enough human ills and ailments that need a physician's care but because of the ruinous competition of the patent medicine trade. When the doctor begins to write concerning patent medicines he grows savage and vicious. He denounces the sale of patent medicines as "medical practice commercialized and therefore prostituted," and adds

"The nostrums cost almost nothing, but the capital is used in advertising, in making pictures of the idiots and feeble minded who imagine themselves cured; in placarding fences, in defacing scenery; in publishing manufactured certificates; in inducing scientific medicine, in flinging the credulous in claiming false discoveries, and in vaunting impossible results. But these are the men who make the money. Medicine to them is the nickel in the slot machine."

Gentry's Pleasing Spectacles.

Among the many strong features of the Mu-tee Lester company, which begins a week's engagement at the Casino Theatre next Monday, none are more prominent than the specialties introduced by Miss Lester and the members of her company. Banjo playing, graceful dancing, quartette singing, etc., added to Miss Lester's guitar and dancing, constitute a stirring programme of entertainment to the pleasure of all the class comedy drama.

ARE THE APPOINTMENTS LEGAL?
Just Possible That Mayor Stansbury Has Not Complied With the New Election Law.

It is just possible that Mayor Stansbury's appointments of inspectors and clerks of election thus far are not legal as the letter of the law has not been complied with, if we may rely upon the opinion of a member of the legal fraternity, who has examined the law. According to our authority the law requires that the appointments shall designate the election district for which they are made and that the appointee "shall take and subscribe to the constitutional oath of office."

The appointees thus far have merely taken a verbal oath, and the printed blanks of appointment do not designate the election district in which they are appointed.

If the new law requires that appointees should subscribe to the oath of office and that the district in which they are to serve should be designated in the appointment those formalities should be complied with, so that no complications may arise after election.

COME TO GRIEF AT LAST.

The Record Made by Ambrose Davenport in This City

Ambrose Davenport, who was indicted by the New York Grand Jury, Wednesday, on the technical charge of forgery for putting in circulation checks and drafts on the fictitious firm of Osmun & Co., who purported to be running a private bank at Cochecton, Sullivan county, is believed to be well known in this city.

Davenport was at one time employed in the Old Taylor House as bar keeper and pool room attendant. Last spring when the North street paving job was being talked of Davenport appeared in this city claiming to be an agent for a cement concern. He called upon all of his old friends and for several days he "plew in" considerable money.

Upon the strength of an expected remittance and the awarding of the cement contract, he borrowed money to the extent of $100 from various parties.

He gave a check to one of them, on a New York bank, which in time was returned as worthless. He was arrested and taken before the Recorder, when he made the check good, borrowing the money as it afterwards appeared from a confiding friend. He claimed that the check was good and that there must be a mistake somewhere, and as he produced the money so readily, his story was believed and the matter was not pressed. He disappeared the next day, and it soon leaked out that he had left a half dozen victims behind him.

THE COUNTY COURT.

More Prisoners Sentenced—Two Indictments Found—Adjournment of Court.

From the New York Journal
Judge Beattie's session of County Court was concluded Friday forenoon, being adjourned until Sept. 25th at Goshen.

The prisoners not sentenced the other day were brought up and disposed of as follows.

Walter Varley, the 16 year old boy who burglarized an Eliz Railway car at Chester, was sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory.

Thomas Callahan, who committed an assault with a scythe in the town of Wawawanda, was sentenced to one year at the Albany penitentiary.

Daniel J. Stevens, the Highland Falls fellow who riddled his wife with bullets, was sent to Sing Sing for five years.

Dennis Hobert stole harness in the Town of Wallkill. He was sent to Sing Sing for three years and six months.

Jacob Jourittie, the big German, suspected of being the fellow who terrorized Washingtonville not long ago by a series of burglaries, pleaded guilty to stealing the guns found in New York, and was sent to Sing Sing prison for four years.

John Turner was playing croquet one day with a madam's-elle. The latter's grandfather came along and undertook to instruct Turner as to the rules of the game. Turner resented the advice and beat the grandfather on the head with a mallet. This morning, Judge Beattie gave the fellow a year in the Albany Penitentiary as a period of reflection.

The Grand Jury in its report handed in the names of two indicted parties who are in custody.

One of these indictments is against Chas Montgomery, colored, who robbed Mrs E. J. McLaughlin at Washingtonville and was overtaken by her after a pursuit on a bicycle.

The other indicted party is Benjamin Broadhead, indicted for robbery in the first degree, committed at Port Jervis.

SUSQUEHANNA AND WESTERN

Annual Report—Favorable Showing—Extension of the Company's Business.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad Company, held Thursday, the directors who served last year were re-elected, with the exception of R. K. Dow, who was succeeded by Harvey E. Fisk.

A report of the operations of the company was made for the fourteen months ending June 30 last, a period of more than a year being taken for the reason that the Hudson River Railroad and Terminal Company was consolidated with the parent company on May 1st, 1893.

During the period mentioned the company handled 1,350,980 tons of anthracite, an increase of 210,000 tons for the previous fiscal year. Gross earnings were $2,055,113 and operating expenses $1,154,125, leaving net earnings of $903,718, being 13.39 per cent. of the gross.

The Hudson River Terminal consists of sixty-five acres of water front, the tunnel that was opened on May 23 last, and ample yard facilities.

Thirteen locomotives and 630 coal cars will be delivered under contract within the next thirty days.

The contract between the company and the Wilkesbarre and Eastern Railroad, which secures to the New York, Susquehanna and Western a large coal tonnage, is set forth in the report. The last named company guarantees the principal and interest on $3,000,000 of Wilkesbarre and Eastern first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds and undertakes to keep the property in good working condition. Any surplus from its operations will accrue to the lessee.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS

The Great Strides Made in the Past Six Years.

Six years ago there were seven electrical railways in the United States; in January, 1890, the number had been increased to 102, and a year later to 281. To-day there are probably 500 cities in this country equipped with electric roads, many of which are of great mileage, as in Boston, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and St. Paul. The increase in the number of these lines has not alone been due to their cheapness in operation and desire for a more rapid system of transportation, but also to the reduced cost of equipping such roads. Six years ago, according to the Electric Review, the price for a complete equipment for a trolley car, including two motors, was about $1,500. The price held for a year and a half, and then dropped to $9,850, $3,500 and $3,300, until two years ago it was about $2,850. One year ago $2,000 was the price of the same equipment, greatly improved in quality and efficiency, while to-day the average price is between $1,000 and $1,200.

We want men $20 to $25 a week steady, who are willing to do simple work to dealers. Some prior experience necessary. Salary or large commission as preferred. HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTY CO., 751 Fourth St., Cincinnati, Ohio.
